Director's Notes

At its core, School of Rock is a story about listening—to ourselves, to one another and to the voices we too often dismiss. As a director and choreographer whose work centers on young people and community, I am drawn to stories that challenge adult-centered assumptions and invite genuine intergenerational collaboration. This musical does exactly that, reminding us that children are not merely “future adults” but fully realized human beings whose creativity, insight and agency matter right now.

Dewey Finn may seem like an unlikely guide for this journey. He is messy, impulsive and resistant to the rigid structures that often define success in our society. Yet his refusal to abandon his dreams creates space for the students of Horace Green to rediscover their own. Through Dewey's unconventional approach, School of Rock asks us to consider where passion and responsibility intersect—and what might be possible if we loosen our grip on inflexible systems long enough to truly listen. The young people in this story do not slowly grow into confidence; they already possess it. What they need are adults willing to hear them.

Perhaps most importantly, this production is an invitation—to adults, educators, parents and young people alike. It asks adults in particular to examine how adultism shows up in our daily lives: whose ideas are dismissed as “too young,” whose choices are overruled “for their own good” and whose voices are included only after decisions have already been made. School of Rock challenges us to reconsider who gets to lead, who gets to dream and who is trusted with real responsibility. It calls on adults not simply to support young people but also to share power with them—by including youth meaningfully in decision-making and allowing their perspectives to shape classrooms, homes and the broader community and civic spaces they inhabit.

This invitation extends just as powerfully to young people themselves. School of Rock encourages youth to recognize and activate their own agency—to claim space, speak up and trust that their ideas and passions matter. It asks them to challenge systems that silence them, to advocate for themselves and one another and to take creative risks even when doing so feels uncomfortable. When young people step into their power and adults commit to truly listening, collaboration becomes transformative. In that shared exchange, leadership is reimagined, community is strengthened and new possibilities emerge—shaped together.

SHOW SYNOPSIS

Rock got no reason, rock got no rhyme... You better get me to school on time! Andrew Lloyd Webber's School of Rock is a two-hour, two-act show (plus intermission) based on the hit movie. The show follows Dewey Finn, a failed wannabe rock star who decides to earn a bit of extra cash by posing as a substitute teacher at a prestigious prep school. There he turns a class of straight-A pupils into a guitar-shredding, bass-slapping, mind-blowing rock band. But can he get them to the Battle of the Bands without their parents and the school's headmistress finding out?

Lloyd Webber produced the stage musical on Broadway and in the West End, penning 14 new numbers for the show, which additionally features all of the original songs from the movie. The composer's tracks "You're in the Band" and "Stick It to the Man" are well on their way to becoming rock-solid standards, while the finale with "Teacher's Pet" brings audiences to their feet.

Andrew Lloyd Webber's School of Rock, with its sensational live kids' rock band, is a loving testimony to the transforming power of music.

A Green Day superfan who loves baseball and bunnies, he gives special thanks to his school's music and drum teacher, Michael; SoR drum instructor Nathan; musical director Aimee, and Miss Heather at LTA. Shout-out to the cast and crew, his mom and dad and his big brother, Everett, for inspiring his theater adventures.

She recently appeared as Ariel in her school's production of The Little Mermaid Jr. and has been involved in numerous community theater shows. She would like to thank the production team for helping her succeed in her LTA (and bass-playing) debut. Much love to her family for nurturing her love of theater, and for helping her keep up with her busy life.

The Originator

Andrew Lloyd Webber has composed the scores of some of the world's most famous musicals. His shows have run continuously in London's West End for 50 years and ran for 43 uninterrupted years on Broadway.

When the original Sunset Boulevard joined School of Rock, CATS and The Phantom of the Opera, he equalled Rodgers & Hammerstein's record of four shows running simultaneously on Broadway. He is one of the select group of artists with EGOT status, having received Emmy, Grammy, Oscar and Tony Awards.

Lloyd Webber owns six London theatres, including the iconic London Palladium and Theatre Royal Drury Lane. Reopened in July 2021, the latter was completely restored and renovated at a cost of over £60 million. This was one of the biggest projects ever undertaken by a private theatre owner in recent times. His mantra is that every penny of profit made from his theatres is ploughed back into the buildings for their conservation and development.

Lloyd Webber is passionate about the importance of musical education and diversity in the arts. Andrew Lloyd Webber Foundation provides 30 performing arts scholarships every year for talented students with financial need, and supports a range of projects such as the Music In Secondary Schools Trust (MiSST).

In academic year September 2025-26, 14,885 children are being given free musical tuition and instruments as part of MiSST's Andrew Lloyd Webber Programme. The Foundation also commissions research into diversity in theatre.

Andrew Lloyd Webber has composed music for globally significant moments. Most recently, he was asked to compose "Make a Joyful Noise," the anthem for the Coronation of King Charles III.

Andrew Lloyd Webber was knighted in 1992, created an honorary life peer in 1997, and made a Knight Companion of the Most Noble Order of the Garter by King Charles III in 2024. He is the only person in the arts ever granted this personal honor by a monarch.

The Council of the Little Theatre of Alexandria is a group of dedicated members who support financial projects for the theatre and provide numerous social events with dinners, receptions, and other member gatherings. The Council promotes and supports volunteerism throughout the theatre to ensure continued success in all areas, i.e., backstage, front of house, box office, etc.; we also provide need-based scholarship funding to support numerous adult and youth educational programs within the theatre. The Council is proud to sponsor the Shakespeare Garden which has become a community favorite with many stopping in just to relax and "waste my time in it."
